

Christian Boucousis – Bio

Fighter pilot Christian 'Boo' Boucousis is a deep performance coach and mentor for leaders, their teams, and aspirational individuals. He helps people connect their purpose to a strategy to make an impact. He is an inspirational keynote speaker who explores a world beyond high performing teams and high-performance leaders.

Boo started his journey with leadership and high-performance teams over 25 years ago, as a mission commander in the Royal Australian Air Force leading hundreds of men and women on complex missions where the margin for error is only 5 secs, all while travelling more than 1,500 km/h!

Over the past 40 years the Royal Australian Air Force trained only 400 fighter pilots, Boo was one of them. Less than 1 in 10 start-up businesses survive beyond a year. Boo has successfully launched and grown four businesses over 12 years.

Boo is a force of nature who can start or close any event and engage an audience like none other, he's a genuinely inspirational keynote speaker. He's energetic and charismatic, surprisingly inspiring, and his deep performance mindset will empower your teams to tackle disruption head-on and be successful every time.

How has he beaten the odds to consistently achieve his goals? By evolving the high-performance mindset and skills he learned to fly a fighter jet to the way he lives his life. He calls it Deep Performance.

Boo's fascinating journey has exposed him to world-class leadership and performance models from every industry sector. From Microsoft to mining and Woolworths to McDonalds, he has had the opportunity to mentor leaders and their teams, helping them to deliver meaningful impacts for their customers.

Discussions around an organisation's performance are challenging and often very personal. The lens through which we view performance can also be a little narrow. Boo's unique perspective on deep performance allows everyone in the organization to look at their performance through a fresh set of eyes, as an individual, as a team member and as a leader. The ultimate goal? To help everyone in your organisation surpass their expectations.
