Introduction:

Let me begin with a few questions:

Are you overwhelmed by all things swirling around in our world today?

Would you like to have less frustrating conversations?

Are there topics or language that make you nervous about even engaging?

If you answered "yes" to any of those questions you are in the right place.

If you answered "no" you may be in serious denial!

Our speaker today has been stirring up difficult conversations for over a decade, performing as a stand-up comic, speaking on stage as a diversity expert, and moving teams from abstract to action. She is a member of the National Speakers Association and is a Certified Speaking Professional. Fewer than 10% of speakers worldwide hold this credential.

When she's not traveling the country, she is spoiling her pug lab mix, Leo, and listening to Johnny Cash cover bands.

Here to answer every question we have about business leadership etiquette in the 21st century... please join me in welcoming from Eureka, California, Keynote Speaker, Funny Lady, and would-be vegan... if it weren't for peanut butter chocolate milkshakes... Jessica Pettitt!
