

The Power of Relationships

- And the power of diversity in South Africa -

Alex van den Heever and Renias Mhlongo

The transforming nature of true diversity is beyond dispute, an elusive goal that South Africa set for itself in 1994. Everyone has their own personal experiences and has enjoyed the rewards of committed intercultural friendships.

Can South Africans build healthy, robust intercultural relationships in the corporate environment? Can these lead to greater levels of personal, financial and national fulfilment?

The answer is a resounding, 'Yes' says inspirational speakers, Alex van den Heever and Renias Mhlongo. In their presentation The Power of Relationships they provide the keys to unlock this latent potential in diverse working relationships.

In the corporate environment, a veritable melting pot of South African cultures, individuals are required to not just work together but to achieve a harmony that ensures the client experience and ultimately the success of the company.

With humour, sensitivity and surprising humility Alex and Renias demolish the walls that isolate each one of us. They tell the true story of their own path to abundance; it's a tale of extremes, white and black, man and boy, apartheid and unity, emerging world and developed world. Alex and Renias use the 22-year life story of their time as game rangers at Londolozi Game Reserve to convey transformational wisdom and insights.

Alex and Renias are a new generation of South African speakers, ultimately personable but capable of utterly breaking down cultural barriers in the work place and fostering a generosity of spirit amongst all South Africans. It's not a methodology they offer but rather an ability to inspire the audience and open their minds to their potential as individuals and as a country.
